Thinking and Thanking

The month of November is revered as a time for counting our many blessing and giving thanks. The library staff has much for which we're thankful—personally and professionally. Each of us is grateful for the opportunity we have to serve our library patrons on a daily basis. We're appreciative that we live and work in a wonderful community that values and appreciates its public library...and values one another.

We are thankful for the City of Richmond, our City Manager, Mayor and the City Council who allocate funds and oversee our library; Richmond's DPW who keep our facility and grounds in tip-top shape, and our faithful Library Board for their dedication and service. Many thanks also to our loyal Volunteers and Friends of the Library for their tireless help! ♥

~ Thank you all! ~

November is the Perfect Month to Enjoy New Books

Don't forget to pick up a FREE copy of BookPage at the library and discover your next great book! The November issue is available at the circulation desk.

Have you perused our New Books section? We have new releases for everyone. If you want to suggest a book for our library's collection look for the following link on our library's website and enter the pertinent information:

"Thank you, Friends of the Library!"

Without a doubt our library has the "best-est" friends ever! Last month they hosted their very successful Fall Book Sale. Zillions of donated items were sorted and organized for weeks on end preceding the sale. When the big event arrived there was excitement in the air as shoppers found bargains galore.

If you appreciate your library and want to be part of this awesome group, please consider joining the Friends of the Lois Wagner Memorial Library. ♥
